A New Girl Band

Go Girls is the name of a popular teenage band from Melbourne in Australia. There are four girls in the band, two pairs of sisters. The girls grew up on the same street in Melbourne and went to the same schools.

They have made music together almost all their lives. Katya and Megan play the guitar, Suzie plays the drums and her sister Anna, the youngest of the four, sings. They were always popular at school concerts and nine months ago they decided to put some of their best songs online. These were heard by a journalist who loved their sound and wrote an article about the band, which was then calling itself The Melbourne Four, in an Australian newspaper. John Barnard, manager of MusicAustralia, a big company, read the article, went on the internet to listen to their songs, loved them too and that was that. He became their manager the next week. But he made them change their name.

Two months later, the band made their first album and were starting a tour of Australia. That is going so well that next year they are going to play in several foreign countries, including the USA and New Zealand.
